JELLA MARIE B. CACERES BSIT 3-C

Identify and document the purpose of key directories and files in the Laravel Project.

In the Laravel project, I noticed that the app directory holds the core application code, while the config directory contains various configuration settings, and database stores factories. The public directory serves as the root for the web server. Additionally, the root directory includes the .env file for environment configuration, the resources directory contains views and Blade templates, the routes directory defines web routes, and the Artisan command-line tool is used to start the website.
